Features

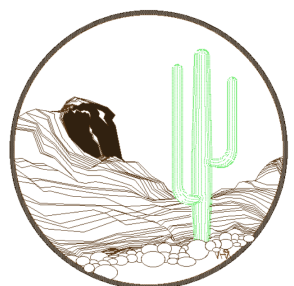

ASEA represents YOU, the escrow practitioner, at the local, state and national level. As the only trade association who knows where you are coming from and understands the challenges you face daily, ASEA strives to represent your interests as we interface with Realtors, Lenders, Legislators and Regulators alike. We have been the "voice" of the escrow technician at the Industry Partners' Conference since the mid-1990's; we speak regularly with the officials at the Department of Financial Institutions and our Legislative Committee partners with that of LTAA to represent our position(s) at the state capital. As a charter member of the American Escrow Association, ASEA also has a strong voice in decisions made in Washington, DC that will impact our industry for decades to come. In other words, ASEA has your back!

Advantages

As an ASEA member, you have many opportunities to learn from the best in the business. ASEA provides educational seminars and workshops on timely subjects at affordable prices. If your employer doesn't provide you with the latest information, where do you go to learn what's new? You go to ASEA, of course. Whether it be the latest Information on government regulations or the basics of handling long-forgotten transactions like seller financing options, ASEA is the ONLY place for you to learn. You can hone your skills and thereby become a more knowledgeable, more marketable...more valuable...employee.

Benefits

As a member of ASEA you will grow both personally and professionally as you combine business with pleasure while getting to know your peers. You will also enjoy a wider sphere of influence in your community as you network with likeminded industry professionals and thereby gain a broader perspective on real estate topics affecting our marketplace. ASEA promotes cooperation between escrow professionals instead of competition; thus we strive to advance the respect and professionalism of our profession within the greater real estate industry.
